Media Indonesia Marketing Strategy for 5 Years Ahead.

Mission

It was suggested that the Media Indonesia shall include one other mission i.e. to give a great experience for the Gen Y in reading the newspaper.

Marketing Objectives

1. Increase the total of Media Indonesia Gen Y readers quarterly in five years.
2. By increasing of readership, Media Indonesia will get a high opportunity to get an income from advertisement.

Financial Objectives

1. Increase the income from product or advertising agency that put an advertisement in Media Indonesia. But, since this research only focused on readership, writer wouldn't estimating the advertisement revenue.
2. Reducing a high cost promotion

Target Markets

Since the most potential target market in Indonesia based on Age-Subculture was Gen Y, the target market of this new wave marketing strategy is Gen Y. In choosing a great marketing strategy, a marketer should understand their target market. To understand about Gen Y, Tapscott (2009) has explains about 8 norms of Gen Y. Freedom, Customize & Personalize, New Scrutinizers, Corporate Integrity & Openness, Entertainment & Play, Collaboration & Relationship, Need for Speed, Innovators.

Clarifying for Positioning

Since writer used new wave marketing strategy, so positioning will replace by Clarifying. Clarifying is the third step after doing communitization and confirming. Clarifying is to make something clear. With clarifying we clearly show our charm and character to our community which we enter. So, after entering a community, Media Indonesia should clarify their self as a part of their communities. So, the members of its communities will have a sense of belonging to Media Indonesia.

Strategies

Based on the survey held by writer, the main factors that could interest Gen Y to read a newspaper is about three factors which is Content, Cover & Layout, and Brand. To get an attention from Gen Y, Media Indonesia should fit its content, cover & layout, and their brand into characteristic that fit to Gen Y. The challenge is in current situation, the content, cover & layout, and brand of Media Indonesia not yet fit into Gen Y characteristic. And after Media could fit its product into Gen Y needs, the product should sell with a new wave marketing concept.

Content.

Media Indonesia should do some improvement in Gen Y favorite content.

This research shows that the favorite content of Gen Y is Sport, Technology, Film & Music, Economy, communities. In current condition, if compared with four top national newspapers, Sport content of Media Indonesia is less than Koran Tempo and Seputar Indonesia. Koran Tempo allocating 6 pages of their 40 pages for sport, and Seputar Indonesia allocating 8 pages of their 44 pages every day for sport content. Media Indonesia and KOMPAS are only allocating 4 Pages of their 38 and 46 pages every day.

The Improvement doesn’t only about adding the number of page, but it could be giving better layout, more updated information or different presentation than the other newspaper.

Media Indonesia should add more pages to supply the needs of Gen Y content.

In current situation, Media Indonesia publishes only with 38 pages. It was the least number of page compared by KOMPAS (46 pages), Koran Tempo (40), and Seputar Indonesia (44 pages). With adding the number of pages, Media Indonesia could adding more content that fit with Gen Y such as Sport, Technologies, Film & Music, Economy, and communities.

Media Indonesia also could apply a content that support interactivity with their readers. Such as provide a trivia quiz with simple prize, the readers could answer the question via twitter or facebook.a profile of athlete that choose by readers via facebook and twitter. The challenge is Media Indonesia should really know about which content that should add and which content that should deleted or reduce.

Lay Out

Media Indonesia should change its conservative layout and cover.

To getting attention from Gen Y, Media Indonesia should do some deeper research related with their layout and cover. The changes in Layout and Cover are really important to newspapers. Because, its related with the comfort ability of people who read the newspaper.

From this research, come the points that Gen Y likes a simple layout with a lot of photos and colorful pages. But back to the reality that to get the best layout and cover, needed a deeper research that focused only in layout and cover. The new layout and cover should fit into Gen Y but not annoyed for other generation. The change of layout and cover doesn’t need hurry. Because, a major changes need a times.

Brand

Join activity that related with Gen Y.

With joining activity that related with Gen Y, Media Indonesia will get a good brand name as a Gen Y newspaper and in the line with it, Gen Y will attract to read Media Indonesia. Because they feel that the Media Indonesia brand is fit to their characteristic.

Employ a Young Generation.

To give a maximal result, we should get a maximal effort from right people. The only one who really understands about gen Y is Gen Y itself. Besides that, a young generation is full of spirit and innovations.

Marketing Mix

The new marketing strategy of Media Indonesia will applied new wave marketing. The new wave marketing concept that will apply is Co-Creation, Communal Activation, Conversation, and Commercialization.

Co creation

This co creation concept is align with one of Gen Y norms “They love to customize and personalize.”. With a co creation concept, Gen Y can give their inputs and recommendation to Media Indonesia. They will have a sense of belonging to Media Indonesia, with a sense of belonging, since they were also relationship generation, they will recommend Media Indonesia to their relatives and friends. Media Indonesia could make content just like what Gen Y want. Example, they could make a special content about sport. The content is about profile of their favorite athlete that they choose via facebook or twitter.

Communal Activation
In communal Activation, Media Indonesia is activating a community via its leaders or the activist of its community. This people are the person who will sell Media Indonesia co creation (product) to their community. This people are the people who talk with their community language, full of their community knowledge, understand about the anxiety and desire of their community. And the cost that needed is not too high. In new wave era, the leader or activist will hold a bold part as a connector between companies and consumer (community). This concept is more or less like a brand ambassador of a product.

This concept also aligning with one of Gen Y’s norms “They are the collaboration and relationship generation.” As evidenced by sites as Yub.com, they also engage in relationship-oriented purchasing. If their best friend recommends a product, they are likely to buy it. They influence each other through networks who discuss brands, companies, products, and services.

Conversation
In the legacy marketing, promotion is the last element of marketing mix. Promotion has 3 purposes: to inform, to persuade and to remind customer. Traditionally, promotion has 5 elements which are: advertising, public relations, personal selling, direct marketing, and sales promotion. While in new wave marketing, this promotion concept is transform into conversation. The differentiation between promotion and conversation is in its characteristic. In promotion, the process is vertical such as: one way communication, top-down, and one to many. While in conversation, the process is vertical, interactive, and two way communication, and build a discussion. In conversation, customer could directly clarify things that promote by company.

In this conversation concept, Media Indonesia should give the best to their customer. This concept is aligning with one of the Gen Y norms “They look for corporate integrity and openness when deciding what to buy and where to work”. If Media Indonesia can show their openness, they will get Gen Y attention. Since in this is an online and internet era, Media Indonesia shall also use internet as their channel of promotion. They could promote in their website or even collaborate with metro TV in metro TV website. Media Indonesia could also use twitter and facebook as their channel of promotion.

Commercialization.
Conversation is more than selling. Media Indonesia couldn’t force their potential readers to read Media Indonesia. Before read Media Indonesia, the readers should persuaded and realize that how good is Media Indonesia. It takes time to make sure that they want to read Media Indonesia. But after they succeed to approach them, Gen Y will be their loyal readers

4. Implementation Plan

Strategy Implementation
The implementation plan of the strategy consisted of two stages: product improvements and new wave marketing strategy stages. Every strategy has three steps: research pre-implementation & improvement, implementation, and evaluation. The plan was set for 5 years.

5. Conclusion and Recommendation

Conclusion
Since Gen Y is the biggest population in Indonesia, Gen Y is also the most potential market for Media Indonesia to increase their readership.
